LOCAL & AREA NEWS

♦ 278th COMING HOME EARLY

The members of the National Guard's 278th Armored Cavalry Regiment are returning early from Iraq. The first units will arrive in Tennessee tomorrow. The remaining members will arrive in groups through the end of August. The 278th deployed to Iraq in February and originally was scheduled to return home in December. The soldiers are coming home early in order to meet the Defense Department's timeline of having fewer than 50,000 combat troops in Iraq after August 31st. The 278th is headquartered in Knoxville and is composed of 3,400 soldiers across Tennessee, including Athens.

♦ PARHAM NAMED NIOTA POLICE CHIEF

Former Etowah Police Chief June Parham has been named as Niota's new chief. Her husband, Joel Parham, was the Niota police chief for several years until his retirement in February 2009. The new chief is expected to begin work later this week.

NATIONAL-WORLD NEWS

♦ A new Associated Press poll shows a majority of Americans disapprove of how President Barack Obama has handled the devastating Gulf oil spill, though far more blame BP for what people call a sluggish two-month response.

♦ President Obama visited Florida on Tuesday, telling residents of coastal Florida areas threatened by the spreading Gulf of Mexico oil spill that his administration will be with them for the long haul.

♦ Researchers from the Harvard School of Public Health say people who eat brown rice or other whole grains seem to have a lower risk of developing diabetes, as opposed to those who eat white rice.

♦ Police in Monroe, Ohio, say a six-story-tall statue of Jesus Christ with his arms raised, located next to a highway, was struck by lightning in a thunderstorm Monday night and burned to the ground.

A former UT Lady Vol basketball player is in trouble with the law again. Brittany Jackson, 26, of Cleveland was arrested in Bradley County for DUI after her car ran into the rear of a car that was stopped at a traffic light. She fled on foot, but police caught her. Jackson and her sister, Lyndsey--a former TWC basketball player--were arrested last month outside a dorm on the Tennessee Wesleyan College campus after they allegedly got into a fight with a 20-year-old woman who was with Lindsey Jackson's former boyfriend.
