STATE & LOCAL NEWS

◆ TODAY IS TENNESSEE "SHAKE OUT" DAY

Tennessee will be among 14 states in the south and central U.S. to observe the 7th annual Great Central U.S. ShakeOut drill today. The purpose of the drill is to raise awareness about the importance of being prepared for a catastrophic earthquake. The Tennessee Emergency Management Agency (TEMA) is working with schools, businesses, communities, and individuals for today's ShakeOut drill so they can learn how to prevent damage and injuries in the event of a major earthquake. The ShakeOut event will begin at 11:15 a.m. At that time, school students and other people are encouraged to DROP to the ground, take COVER under a desk or table, or cover their heads and neck with their arms, and HOLD ON until the shaking stops. That is known as the Drop, Cover, and Hold On technique. It's been many years since a major earthquake occurred in East Tennessee. However, every year scores of small quakes measuring under 3.0 on the Richter Scale are recorded in our area along a fault line stretching from Georgia and running through East Tennessee. West Tennessee, on the other hand, lies on the New Madrid fault line. Seismologists say it's just a matter of time before another major earthquake strikes that area. On Feb. 7, 1812, an earthquake devastated New Madrid, Missouri. The quake caused a temporary waterfall on the Mississippi River, which sent waves of water across northwestern Tennessee, creating what is now known as Reelfoot Lake.

AFCB Teaches Financial Literacy

This year marks the 5th anniversary of Athens Federal Community Bank's SMART Start Financial Literacy program. Athens Federal has invested more than $100,000 to bring financial literacy education to local high schools at no cost to the schools. The program uses the EverFi online technology platform which brings complex financial concepts to life for today's digital generation. SMART Start is designed to help prepare high school juniors and seniors to make sound financial decisions as they enter the workforce or continue their education.
