Motorcycle Chase Ends in Fiery Crash

Bradden Brown faces multiple charges after leading deputies on a high-speed motorcycle chase in Whitwell, Tennessee. The incident began when a Whitwell officer noticed Brown's motorcycle without a license plate and attempted a traffic stop. Brown initially pulled over but then sped away. He eventually collided with Chief Seagraves of Powells Crossroads Police, knocking him to the ground. After the collision, Brown crashed into a ditch and tried to flee on foot, but was apprehended after resisting arrest and being tazed. During a search, officers found heroin on Brown. His license was revoked due to a past DUI, and he was wanted in Bledsoe County for a parole violation. Brown faces charges including felony evading, aggravated assault on a law enforcement officer, driving with a revoked license, possession of schedule I drugs, reckless driving, and failure to display registration. *Photo Courtesy of Marion Co. What Day Is It?

Today In History - June 13

1944 - The first German V-1 "Buzz Bomb" hit London. They were called "buzz bombs" because the V-1's jet engine produced a loud stuttering sound as it approached.

1971 - The "Pentagon Papers" began appearing in the New York Times. The classified papers contained a thorough history of America's involvement in the Vietnam War and their publication caused many Americans to express opposition to how the government had handled U.S. involvement in the war.

1977 - James Earl Ray, the convicted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was captured in a Tennessee wilderness after escaping from Brushy Mountain Prison.
